Hepatitis A

What is Hepatitis A?

Highly contagious liver disease caused by a virus

Spread from person to person and can last weeks to months

How Does it Spread?

- Not washing your hands
- Sexual contact with an infected partner
- Sharing needles or other drug equipment
- Sharing personal items
- Drinking and eating contaminated food
- Drinking and eating contaminated food

What are the Symptoms?

- Yellowing of the eyes and skin
- Nausea and Vomiting
- Dark Pee
- Joint Pain
- Fever
- Loss of Appetite
- Abdominal Pain
- Gray poop
- Tiredness

How Can I Prevent it?

- Get two shots of hepatitis A vaccine
- Wash hands thoroughly with soap and water
- Do not share needles
- Do not share eating utensils
- Do not share personal items

If you feel that you are at risk for hepatitis A and you are experiencing any of these symptoms, seek medical treatment immediately!